(57) Abstract :

The invention discloses a device (100) for monitoring strategic KPI compliance across enterprise systems. It comprises a data integration module (101), compliance rule engine (102), analytics processor (103), visualization interface (104), and notification dispatcher (105). The system enables real-time performance tracking, deviation detection, predictive analytics, and smart alerting to support strategic alignment. The device operates with AI-based insights and a user-centric dashboard to empower timely decision-making and continuous enterprise performance improvement.
